Poker League Communication Tools Called “Unique in the Poker Industry”

Louisville, KY, March 01, 2010 --(PR.com)-- Dale Morrow, owner of the poker school www.fifthstreetfoundation.org, taught his students for years using open tables at various online venues. But after discovering the poker league software at www.hogwildpokerleagues.com, Morrow has been pleased with the results.

“We mainly used Full Tilt in the past, but there was always a ton of work involved in managing the group. With HogWildPokerLeagues, I can schedule online or offline games, and it's just a lot easier. We've already moved several hundred students over to their site, and we plan to switch them all over by summer. Whether you have a league of 5 or 5000, this site handles it all - it's effortless.”

HogWildPokerLeagues.com offers a feature-rich platform that includes voice communication between players at the table. However, poker league administrators are drawn to league management tools such as:

- Automated game reminders (via email/text)
- Real-time point system (keeps records indefinitely)
- Complete control over the game speed (blinds, chip levels, add-ons and rebuys)
- League and individual blogs
- One-step invitation system
- Online and offline stat consolidation
- Online reporting of standings for league members

HogWildPokerLeagues.com CEO Jeff Amrein said that the software was created to give league captains total control. “We envisioned a poker platform that did everything but play your cards for you. Since our launch last month, the response has been unbelievable. I'm glad we built the robust technical structure to handle the number of signups we're getting.”

Another poker school, www.professionaldealerschol.com expressed relief after finding the HogWildPokerLeagues.com software. “Until you've spent hours and hours every week updating spreadsheets, you'd have no idea how welcome these league tools are to a guy like me,” said owner Charles “Chaz” Allen.

“Players love HogWildPoker.com because it does so many things - like keeping track of 'Heads Up’ showdowns. But for me, that stuff is just icing on the cake. This software does the work and allows me to focus on my students.”

Amrein pointed out that they offer a free trial of the software. “We encourage everyone to drop by, create a private league and invite their friends to play. It's on us.”
